Staff Shortage

1. An extreme staff shortage in the Editorial Division in Washington, ~~is~~ occasioned by delays in recruitment, processing of candidates and by demands on the Division to fill overseas vacancies, promises to interfere during the next sixty or ninety days to a serious extent with the publication of the Daily Reports. Inquiry is made whether a relief for this shortage might be combined with orientation for a West Coast Bureau editor not previously on duty in Washington.

2. Your comment and suggestion on specific possibilities is invited.
